- Abstract data may not be presented prior to the Scientific or other Congress.
- 4) Human studies must comply with either the ACSM Policy Statement Regarding the Use of Human Subjects and Informed Consent (1998), or the Declaration of Helsinki Ethical Principles for Medical Research Involving Human Subjects (Edinburgh, Scotland, October 2000).
 - 5) To ensure consistency and clarity, it is directed that authors utilize the units of measurement of the Systeme International de'Unite (SI).
 - 6) Senior researchers and clinicians may be affiliated with or have financial interest in commercial entities that may have a bearing on the subject matter of an abstract presentation. The prospective audience must be made aware of the affiliation/financial interest by an acknowledgment in the final program. This Statement of Disclosure is listed at the end of the abstract.

Preparing the Abstract

Accepted abstracts will be published in Proceedings Book of the Conference. You are limited to 2,300 characters in Times New Roman, 10 point font (not including spaces, title, or author block). If including table, chart, or graph, your text character count will be limited to accommodate your graphic. Do not use brand names in the abstract. Indicate grant funding information at the bottom of the abstract in the Statement of Disclosure.

Title: The title should be brief (limit to 15 words)

Authors: The first and last names of the authors will be included in the author block. Do not include degrees.

Institutions: Institutions of all authors will be included. Do not include departments.

Text: The abstract must be informative, including a statement of the study's specific PURPOSE, METHODS, summary of RESULTS, and CONCLUSION statement using these headings. It is unsatisfactory to state, "The results will be discussed." Abstracts of experimental studies must include data to substantiate the conclusions being drawn. It is not satisfactory to simply describe what was found verbally in general terms. The lack of inclusion of experimental data may result in the abstract being rejected. The abstract must be written in English.

Character Limit-Limited to 2,300 characters (not including spaces). If including a table, chart or graph, the character limit will be approximately 1,700 characters depending on the size of the object.

Nonconforming abstracts will be rejected.

ABSTRACT

PURPOSE: This study presents an example of the quantitative contribution of modern sport biomechanics to the training of a competitive wrestling technique, specifically the arm throw in young wrestlers. METHODS: Two experienced wrestlers who had been training for 10 y participated as subjects. The kinematic waveforms were recorded for all body segments using an optoelectronic system with six infrared cameras. The recordings were made in 5 different successful trials of the execution of the arm throw. Besides the waveforms, the coefficients of multiple correlations were calculated as measures of each waveform's variability. RESULTS: showed that typical repetitive joint angle waveforms exist in specific joints of the body - the torso, the pelvis and the lower limbs.

However, the respective waveforms for the upper limbs showed a very large variability (CMCs<.085). CONCLUSIONS: It was found, that biomechanical analysis may be a very useful tool for quantifying information on the execution of a complex wrestling technique, such as the arm-throw. Problematic areas for this technique were specific to the arms. This information can assist the coach in making the adjustments needed to improve the athlete's technique and performance.
